

Everyday DC 2020: Brightwood Education Campus

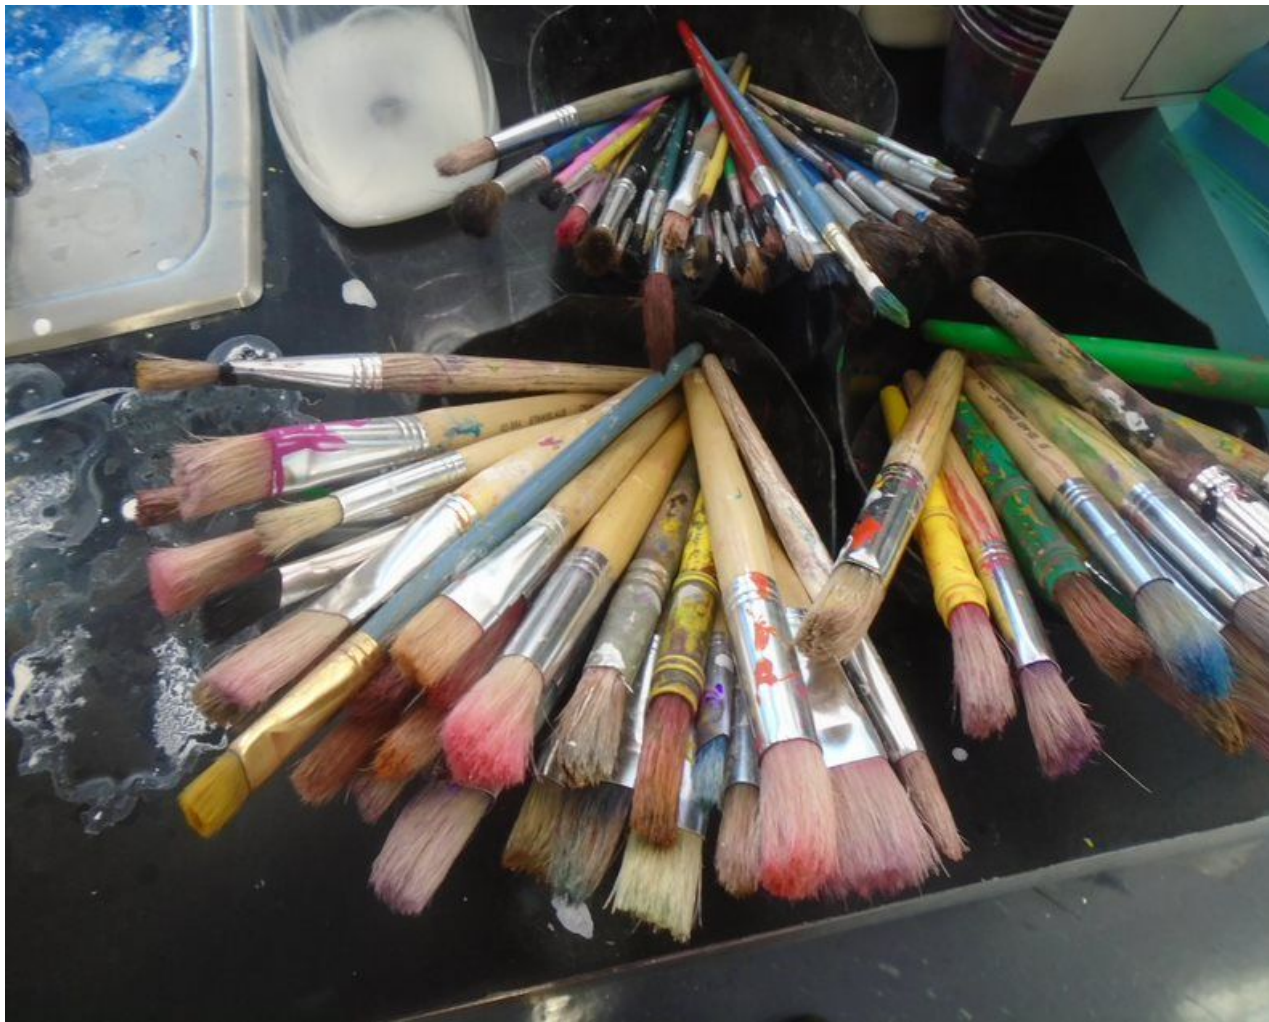

Ana Buruca Torres

Untitled

On a very rainy and foggy day at Brightwood EC, we decided to go outside to see our school in an angle of texture with raindrops when it's rainy. From the inside of the school we see how raindrops hit the window when we couldn't get outside for recess.

Wilber Ventura

Paintbrushes in the art room

Dahlia Giron

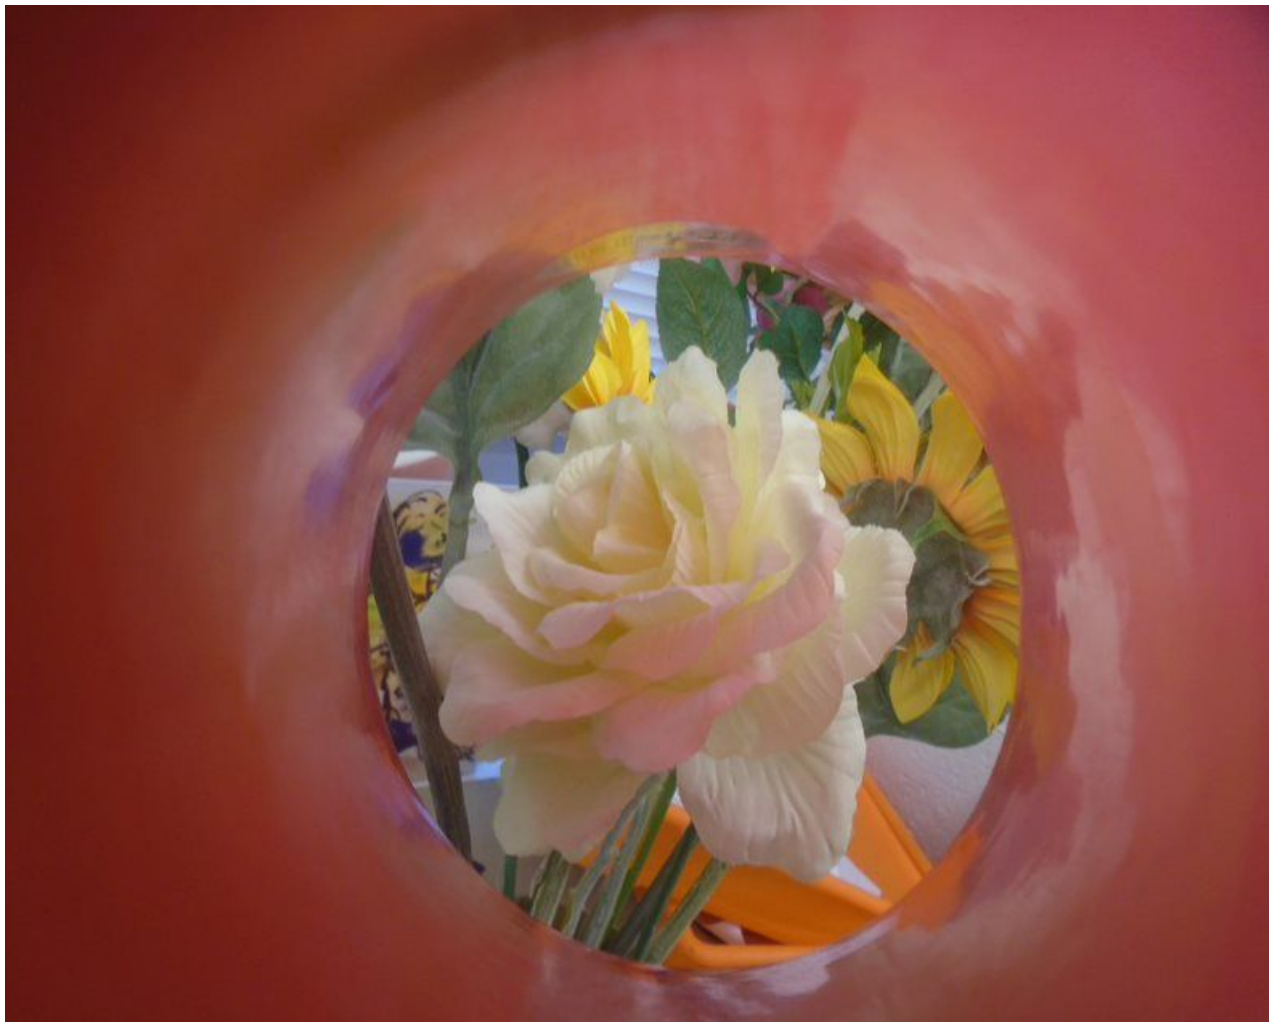

Untitled

This is me at Brightwood Education Campus. At Brightwood you can wear and be whatever you want without being judged.

Dilcia Liset Benitez

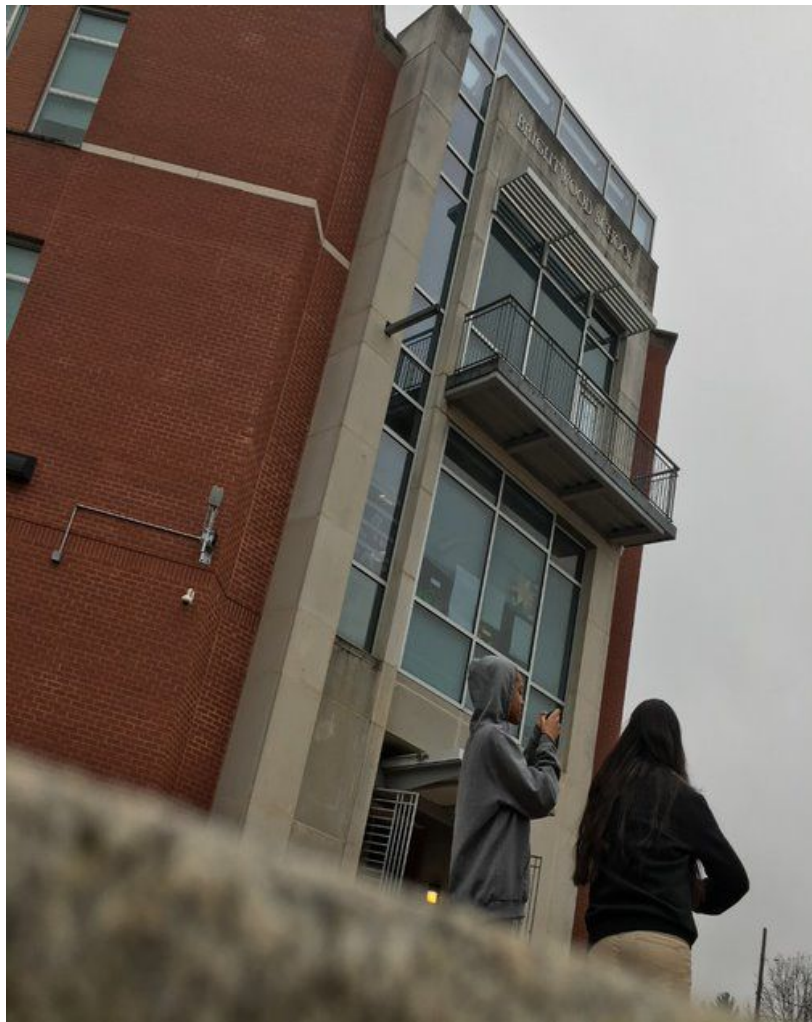

Enjoying the Sunlight

Flor Sorto

Untitled

Flowers as decoration in art class at Brightwood Education Campus. I want people to see the beauty of flowers.

Franco Ochoa

Untitled

The everyday view of the front of our school, Brightwood Education Campus.

Wilber Ventura

Untitled

This is Michael, he is thinking about how this school is great and that God gave us a challenge to complete at Brightwood Education Campus.

Taylor Hawkins

Untitled

A colorful feather sits on the table at Brightwood on January 14, 2020. The feather is as bright as the students at Brightwood. This is Everyday DC because kids like to make and create beautiful artwork. The feather has different colors because everyone is not the same. Be yourself!

Samaria

Untitled

This is Brightwood Education Campus. Students are outside taking pictures. This is where Middle and Elementary School students come every day to learn and have fun.

Yoselin Perez

Untitled

A table at Brightwood
Education Campus is wet which shows the weather in D.C.