

Everyday DC 2020: Hardy Middle School

Bohannon Grant

Untitled

This photo was taken on my friend's birthday, where we decided to go to Starbucks to celebrate. We all liked the idea of photo shoots and very glamorous things, so we took photos as the sun set after we had gotten our drinks. I really liked the really strong colors in the photo, namely the yellow and red jackets, and the overall flow of the picture.

Saleem Anderson

Last Call at the Newseum

Isabel Mackaye

Untitled

Mr. Newbold examining students' Everyday DC photography.

Jahlonnie Easton

Untitled

This is a picture of my dog after walking in the rain. His hair got messy so I wrapped him up in a blanket to dry him off and then I brushed his hair and wiped his feet off. He loves the attention and I like it because I get to spend time with him. I do this every time I walk him in the rain.

James Adams

Untitled

Hardy Middle School
students are City Kids who Metro to field trips.

Jasen Graham

D.C. Transportation is Art

Jessica Smith

Untitled

The two men are my mom's choir members, Christian (left) and Angelo (right). One of the pre-concert shenanigans displayed here is tying a bow tie. Angelo needed help with his since his hands were occupied. This is my Everyday DC because my mom has been a classical singer for years. I was just born into it!

Layla Stewart

Untitled

This is a photo of my cousin Trinity. She's cutting greens for my grandma. This was taken on December 24, 2020 around 12. I took this photo in my kitchen. My house is where most of the holiday baking and cooking is done for my dear family.

Makenzie Tidwell

Hardy Hawks Spread
Their Wings and Fly!

Nassir Butler

I am Nassir Butler!

Sydney McDuffie

Untitled

Happy sisters have each others back.