

A GLOBAL PAPER TRAIL

What China's Rapid Emergence as a Paper Producer Shows about Innovation, Globalization and U.S. Competitiveness

JOHN SCHMID

Milwaukee Journal Sentinel

MONDAY, APRIL 15
7 P.M.

Sprinkle Room, Alvarez College Union

Schmid covers economic change and globalization for the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel. In 2003, his "Made in China" series won the 2004 APME International Perspective Award, the National Headliner Award for best series and the Award for Excellence in Economic Reporting from the Fund for American Studies. His 2004 series, "Dream Derailed," which dissected global economic forces and the resulting depression in Milwaukee's inner city, won a Best in Business for Special Projects award from the Society of American Business Editors and Writers. More recently he has covered the global economics of water and investigated flaws in the U.S. patent system. The Pulitzer Center on Crisis Reporting supported Schmid's international reporting project for the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel's 2012 series on the paper industry in China and Wisconsin.

Hosted by the Dean Rusk International Studies Program, in association with the Pulitzer Center on Crisis Reporting.

DAVIDSON