

Title Kashmir's Tribal women suffer very poor menstrual Health. What's to Blame?	Author sagib Mughloo shefali Rafiq	Date Published May 28, 2022
---	---	---------------------------------------

Summarize: Critical Facts from the Text

- It is impossible for a woman to conceive when she has a vaginal infection
 ↳ Infection can lead to scar tissue in the uterus, which can ultimately block the fallopian tubes and lead to infertility.
- At least over 500 million women & girls lack adequate facilities for menstrual hygiene management.
- 96% of Gujar girls manage their menstruation in a "very poor" way
- Less than 10% of tribal women are educated

Analyze: What is the writer's overall claim?

The lack of education & attention among these tribal women could possibly be the blame for the superstitions about menstruation.

Evaluate: What do you notice about the writer's structure or organization? How effective is it for the purpose of the text?

The authors goes by every perspective of the tribal women while providing some sort of context beforehand. Then, they would provide a fact that is the direct factor of the lack of attention this problem needs.

Evaluate: Focus on the multimedia components of the text. What photographs are used? Videos? Podcasts? Other visuals? How effective are they in adding to the purpose of the text?

The authors use different photographs of tribal women that suffer from some sort of period poverty or a myth that causes bad menstrual health. This is very effective because ^{this} allows for the readers to be aware of the real-life applications (and ex) of menstrual Reflect and Extend: What new understanding do you have after reading this article? What questions do you have that are unanswered from the text? What do you want to ask the writer? What related questions or ideas does this text give you?

The advent of phones is allowing for more exposure & awareness of menstrual hygiene.