

Separated Migrant Family of Six Faced
One Hurdle After Another After
Immigration Crackdown

Author

The author of this story is Neena Satija. Neena Satija is an investigative reporter and radio producer for the Texas Tribune and Reveal, a public radio program from the Center for Investigative Reporting

Summarized story

A man named Marcos samayoa and his wife along with their four children are trying to cross the border to the united states because of them receiving threats in their homeland. Only sandy and their kids cross but Marcos is left waiting for them outside the border. Sandy needs to keep going to fight for her her asylum and try to live free in the united states with her family. Immigration lawyers tell her that she doesn't have enough proof of citizenship so ends up failing which makes marcos case worse because he has less proof. Days after, another immigration lawyer gives her permission to continue her asylum cases then gets permitted to live in the united states. Sandy isn't fully eligible for an asylum because she tried to cross multiple times illegal and got caught and deported .Sandy then gets reunited with her kids after 1 month of separation and is headed to her moms house (hilda) they are now happy even whens andy doesn't know what happened to marcos but she wants to move on for her kids

Outcome

The outcome of this story is after everything the family went through they were finally happily living together except for Marcos who sandy had no idea what happened to him but wants to move on for her kids.

Question for the people in the story

What made you keep going after almost reaching failure?

If something happened to your kids while you were away would you still keep fighting?

What did yall guys do in order to receive those threats from your homeland?

Do you miss your husband and wonder if anything bad has happened?

Querencia

The querencia in this story is going to the united states and living safely and happily. As you can see in the end she is now happy with her kids and glad that she got to live in the united states with her family (except her husband) with her mom hilda.