

This 2021 article from the Houston Chronicle covers a dress code that a popular restaurant implemented, which has been accused of having anti-Black undertones.

1. What is meant by the phrase “anti-Black undertones?”
2. Do you take issue with the dress-code policy the restaurant initially posted? Why?
3. Do you think this restaurant (or any) should be able to establish a dress-code policy beyond the bare minimum (shirt, shoes, and some type of pants/shorts)?
4. If yes to questions #2 and #3, how could this restaurant have differently written their dress code policy?
