

Viewing Guide for “Apple’s Gold”

While you watch this episode of The Weekly, answer the following questions to track the journalists’ investigative reporting process

What does journalist Nicholas Casey say he aims to find out about in this story?
How does Casey and his team know that Apple uses gold from Colombia?
How does Casey and his team know that illegal mining is taking place in Colombia?
Why did Pedro “Chilapo” Ramirez agree to show the New York Times the illegal mine where he works?
What explanation does Jeremy McDermott provide for how illegal armed groups have successfully involved themselves in the gold trade?
What evidence does the documentary provide to support the claim that people are being threatened and/or killed for resisting armed groups involved in the gold trade? List at least three examples.	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. 2. 3.
How did Casey know it was important to talk to Fundición Gutiérrez for this story?
Why does Casey interview a member of the Clan del Golfo?
What continuing problems with companies and the gold trade does Casey point out at the end of the episode?	